FOUNDER AND EXECUTIVE CHAIRMAN, QUALTRICS

Ryan Smith is the chairman of Smith Entertainment Group and the governor of both the NBA's Utah Jazz and the NHL's Utah Hockey Club. He is also the founder and executive chairman of Qualtrics, the creator of the experience management (XM) category.

Ryan and his wife, Ashley, purchased the Utah Jazz in late 2020 as part of the launch of Smith Entertainment Group (SEG), and in April 2024, brought the NHL to Utah with the purchase and establishment of Utah Hockey Club. SEG's portfolio also encompasses Delta Center, SEG Media, Real Salt Lake (MLS), the Utah Royals (NWSL), America First Credit Union Field, Salt Lake City Stars (NBA G League), Utah Jazz Gaming (NBA 2K League), Real Monarchs (MLS NEXT Pro), and other Utah-centric business ventures.

Ryan grew Qualtrics from a basement startup to one of the fastest-growing technology companies in the world, with 25 offices globally and more than 16,700 customers, including over 85 percent of the Fortune 100, and 99 of the top 100 business schools. In the private market, Qualtrics raised $400M in funding from Accel, Sequoia, and Insight Venture Partners. Three days before the company was initially scheduled to go public, SAP announced its intent to acquire Qualtrics in what was the largest private enterprise software acquisition at that time. In 2021, Qualtrics listed for an initial public offering on the Nasdaq under the ticker symbol "XM." The company was then taken private in July 2023 in a private equity buyout led by Silverlake.

In 2016, Ryan co-founded 5 For The Fight, the campaign to eradicate cancer by supporting groundbreaking cancer research. The campaign invites everyone to give $5 for the fight against cancer. The 5 For The Fight patch, donated by Qualtrics, was worn on the Utah Jazz jerseys from 2017 to 2023 and was the first philanthropic patch in the history of North American professional sports.
